ABOUT MILAN

Strategically placed at the gateway to the Italian peninsula, Milan and the surrounding region of Lombardy have been the subject of constant disputes over the centuries. Celts, Romans, Goths, Lombards, Spaniards and Austrians have all ruled the city at some stage of its history and for the most part, the city has capitalised on its position and has emerged today as the undisputed economic and cultural powerhouse of a united Italy, not without occasionally fighting back against foreign dominators.

Milan's origin goes back to 400 B.C., when Gauls settled and defeated the Etruscans against Celts who were about to overrun the city.

Nowadays the city of Milan is the capital of Lombardy, has a population of 1,3 million people.

It is the biggest industrial city of Italy with many different industrial sectors.

AIRPORTS:

Malpensa airport, abt. 70 km from Milan, connected to the center of the city by the Malpensa Express train arriving at Cadorna Station in abt.40 min.

Linate airport, abt.10 km from the center, connected to the heart of the city (San Babila stop) by bus 73 in 15 min.
